DATES FOR EVERY OCCASION

At Woodspur Farms we love dates, and we want to spread the word about this amazing fruit. From traditional recipes to cutting-edge concoctions, the uses for whole dates and date products are only limited by your imagination. Food producers looking for a nutritious and delicious alternative to sugar can find exactly what they need from Woodspur Farms.

DATE PASTE

Date paste has been used for millennia in a variety of foods around the world. Use it to create delicious filling for pastries and biscuits, as a binder for energy bars, or as a healthier substitute for sugar in a wide variety of foods from baked goods to ice cream and salad dressings to smoothies.

Date paste's low moisture and high acidity give it a long shelf life and make it easy to work with. It imparts a pleasant taste and texture whenever it's added, and it's also highly nutritious – providing protein, fiber, a host of vitamins and minerals, and healthy fats.

Available in single grind or double grind, date paste is sold in 40-lb. boxes.

DATE SYRUP

Long a staple of Middle Eastern cuisine, more and more Americans are turning to date syrup as a healthier alternative to sugar for baked goods, smoothies, yogurt, pudding, desserts, marinades and beverages. Like whole dates and date paste, date syrup is very nutritious – new research even shows that it has antibacterial properties.

Date syrup is sold in 620-lb. barrels.

DICED DATES AND DATE PIECES

Because of their low moisture and high acid content, diced dates and date pieces have a long shelf life. Diced dates and date pieces are great as a snack or in desserts. Add them to muffins, cookies or scones. Toss them into cereal, granola or trail mixes. Whisk diced dates into marinades and sauces to add complexity and texture.

Diced dates and date pieces need no preparation, although some bakers and other food producers prefer to rehydrate their dates for maximum juiciness. Just pour boiling water over the fruit and let sit, covered, for 5 to 10 minutes before adding to your recipe.

Woodspur Farms coatings reduce stickiness and improve measurement accuracy. Options include rice flour, gluten-free oat flour, chia flour, chia seeds and dextrose. Diced dates and date pieces are sold in 30- and 40-lb. boxes.

In addition to providing the sweetness people crave, dates are an excellent source of protein, dietary fiber, antioxidant phytochemicals, vitamins, minerals and healthy fatty acids.

DATE ROLLS

To make our signature coconut rolls, we clean, pit and press our dates through a fine aperture screen, and then roll them in shredded coconut. These mouth-watering treats are available with or without almonds.

Quantities and packaging vary according to your needs.
